

Activities held in Uganda on the occasion of the 2006 International Day for the Preservation of the Ozone Layer

World Ozone Day was organised at a 250-acre Royal van Zanten flower farm in Nakisunga, Mukono district. The ceremony was attended by Mr. Gilbert Bankobeza, UNEP, who said Uganda had tremendously reduced the ozone depleting substances by about 98 percent and was ahead of the deadline to phase out methyl bromide that was commonly applied on flower farms.
